UNIVERSITY OF NAIROBI ANNUAL RESEARCH WEEK 2025: CALL FOR PREPARATIONS

This memo is to inform all faculty, teaching, and non-teaching staff, as well as undergraduate, Master's, and PhD students, that the University of Nairobi Annual Research Week 2025 has been scheduled for October 21st to 24th, 2025.

The University of Nairobi Annual Research Week is a significant platform for showcasing research, innovation, and enterprise development across all disciplines. As a faculty committed to excellence in these areas, the Faculty of Business and Management Sciences will be hosting five (5) conferences during this prestigious event, namely:

- i. 16th AIBUMA Conference Committee
- ii. 10th DBA –Africa Management Review International Committee
- iii. 7th ADFC - African Development Finance Conference
- iv. 2nd Annual International Conference of Monitoring & Evaluation
- v. 7th International Conference of Project Planning and Management

We strongly encourage all members of our faculty and student body to begin preparations for these conferences. This is an excellent opportunity to present your research findings, engage with fellow researchers, and contribute to the advancement of knowledge in your respective fields.

The five conferences hosted by the Faculty of Business and Management Sciences will focus on upscaling research, innovation, and enterprise development. Specific themes, timelines for abstract and full paper submissions, paper acceptance guidelines, registration dates, publication opportunities, registration fees (if applicable), and venues (in-person, virtual, or blended) will be communicated directly by the respective conference organizers and convenors in the coming weeks.

We urge everyone to stay tuned for further announcements and to actively participate in this year's research week. Let us work together to make the Faculty of Business and Management Sciences a leader in research and innovation.

We look forward to your valuable contributions and participation.
